

Dear Mr. Alien Friend,

I am writing to you today to explain how to get the best cup of hot chocolate (a milky cup of magic) you will ever drink. First you need to grab a five (5) dollar ($) bill from your wallet. It should be green, paper, and have "5" in the corners. Hopefully you will have this.

Next you will make your way out of your apartment. Begin to walk. During your walking, you should encounter a Starbucks Coffee because there is one on every corner. It will have a green, circular sign that says "Starbucks Coffee" and in the middle of the sign (that should be above your head) is a weird green and white lady. Open the door by using the shiny thing you can grab in front of you, it's called a doorknob.

Once you are inside of Starbucks, make your way over to the human who should be wearing a green apron and hat if they're doing their job right. It is time for the most crucial step. Ordering. It's very simple really, but you have to say the right thing. "Hi! May I please have a grande hot chocolate- kids temperature." Once you have said this, hand your green paper (money) to the human. You've ordered!

After ordering and paying, the barista (human) should lead you to where to pick your drink up. Then wait patiently for them to say "One grande hot chocolate." Once this is said, you're good! Grab the cup and begin to drink!

Sincerely,
your human friend.
